

Francis' New Adventure in Hong Kong Institute of Construction, CIC

Ir Dr Francis Wong, our current Adjunct Professor, took on new challenges in his new capacity as Director of the Hong Kong Institute of Construction (HKIC) of the Construction Industry Council (CIC) in November after retiring as his full-time post of Professor in our Department.

With the new hat of director, Francis leads a team and gives insights towards the establishment of HKIC and the restructure of the training practices. Aiming to strengthen construction workers' professionalism and pave the way for promising careers for them, HKIC plays a crucial role in providing quality construction training for workers in the industry.

Over the past thirty-three years in our Department, Francis contributed a lot through a range of positions from Department Head, Programme Leader of MSc/PgD in Project Management Programme, Award Co-ordinator of BSc (Hons) Property Management Programme to Chairman of AsiaConstruct 2014, etc. Francis has picked up a great deal of knowledge and experiences as well as flourished tight bonds with a large bunch of stakeholders along the way.

We are honoured to have Francis on the journey in pursuit of the excellence. A huge thank-you goes to Francis for his considerable contribution over the years.

We truly wish Francis a new adventure of challenges, excitements and success!
